

Professional School Course Petition Form

Professional School Course Policy

Some professional school courses are open to undergraduates by petition only. In all cases, the registration, class schedules, and exam policies for these courses are those of the professional school: undergraduate students are expected to follow the rules, procedures, and deadlines of the divisions or professional schools in which they are registered. First-year students in the College may not register for professional school classes.

Students who plan to take professional school courses should first consult their College Adviser. Students in the College are limited to six professional school course registrations (whether or not the courses are completed), and only four may be counted toward the 4200 units of credit required in an undergraduate program.

Please Note: Courses taken in professional school courses are not notated as such on the official transcript, although the transcript includes a key to understanding course codes. Grades awarded for professional school classes will be considered by admissions committees in any subsequent application to graduate or professional school.

Professional school courses may include those from:

- The Law School
- The Harris School of Public Policy
- The School of Social Service Administration
- The Computer Science Professional Program
- The Toyota Technological Institute at Chicago

College students are not permitted to enroll in courses at the Pritzker School of Medicine.

For the Chicago Booth School of Business, College students must follow the guidelines and directions here:
