Student Life at UChicago
We are dedicated to the intellectual, personal, and professional success of every University of Chicago student. We support virtually all aspects of the University experience, from course registration and campus dining to physical recreation and undergraduate housing. Students find opportunities to make an impact—whether it’s through formal leadership roles on campus or while serving our surrounding Chicago communities. We also help students maintain well-being and cultivate resilience through programming on such topics as diversity, wellness, and fitness. We advise more than 400 student organizations, which are outlets for exploration and debate, all adding to the lively campus exchange of cultures and ideas. We are unwavering in our commitment to the free expression of diverse opinions and perspectives and recognize the inherent value of non-disruptive protest and dissent in promoting civic engagement and social change. Above all, we are dedicated to making UChicago a place where students are sure to experience University life at its fullest.
Opportunities for impact

Numerous programs provide students with expansive opportunities to engage with diverse people, ideas, and cultures. Students can build leadership skills while expanding their local understanding and global perspective.

- Students can explore interests through more than 400 recognized student organizations, including Student Government, the South Asian Students Association, and Model United Nations.
- Student-run coffee shops and cafes provide students with opportunities to gain work experience or take study breaks.
- UChicago Leads programs help students develop the skills necessary to become global leaders.
- Student advisory boards give students the chance to influence campus life initiatives and programs.
- The University Community Service Center connects students with the surrounding Chicago community.

Wellness

We help students maintain personal balance through numerous campus support systems, fitness and wellness programs, and opportunities for spiritual fellowship and expression.

- UChicago Student Wellness provides students with comprehensive, student-centered care.
- UChicago Student Wellness staff lead educational programming on a variety of wellness topics, including stress reduction, developing a positive body image, and time management.
- Dedicated spaces for meditation and prayer make room for spiritual practice.
- The Dean-on-Call program provides students access to a University administrator 24/7/365.
- Student Disability Services offers resources, support, and accommodations for all students with disabilities and works to remove physical and attitudinal barriers.

Program Highlight

Peer Health Advocates (PHAs) support their fellow students and empower them to make healthy choices. In Touch, Mind over Matter, and The Body Positive PHAs do this by connecting their peers to campus resources and offering education on a variety of topics, including sexual health, healthy relationships, mental well-being, body image, and self-esteem.

HEALTHY LIVING

We believe that wellness is much more than physical health; it is the integration and balance of all facets: emotional, environmental, intellectual, spiritual, physical, financial, and social. UChicago Student Wellness is committed to enhancing the wellness of the UChicago community by promoting healthy lifelong behaviors and empowering students to reach their highest potential.

Diverse and inclusive communities

Coming into contact with such a wide variety of people through living in the Houses has been really beneficial. It has allowed me to create different lenses through which to view the world. I think this is crucial for me as a student.

Program Highlight

The Emerging Minds Project, hosted by the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs, employs dialogue to help participants reflect on daily societal issues.

- Student Support Services invites University community members to participate in Share Your Table, an initiative designed to build community over a warm meal.
- LGBTQ Student Life coordinates a mentorship program that forges lasting connections among students, faculty, and staff.
- International House programs develop global citizens and promote cross-cultural understanding.
- We support and encourage unique UChicago traditions that build community, like Scav, Kuvia, Shake Day, and Summer Breeze.

Systems for success

We believe that students’ success and well-being begin with their most basic needs, including feeling a sense of belonging. We offer easily accessible resources to help students manage daily affairs, from class schedules to meals and finances.

- Housing & Residence Life, anchored by a long-standing program in which faculty serve as Resident Deans, fosters community and students’ home away from home.
- UChicago Dining offers vegetarian, vegan, gluten-free, kosher, and halal meals every day.
- Financial Aid, the Bursar, and Student Loan Administration facilitate student financial assistance and financial literacy.
- The Office of Student Centers is a multifaceted unit that promotes a sense of community on campus by managing multiple student life spaces, overseeing the student-run coffee shop program, and employing more than 100 students.

SPIRITUAL LIFE RESOURCES

Weekly worship of many world religious traditions, concerts, and festivals fill the halls of Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, a 90-year-old campus landmark. Students also benefit from a dedicated Spiritual Life center, which serves as a space for personal reflection and social connection.

- 25 religious advisors of world traditions
- 80 spiritual and religious networks
- 5 meditation sessions each week

Program Highlight

Mawlid, which celebrates the life of Prophet Muhammad, is the largest annual gathering of the University’s Muslim community. Nearly 600 attendees of all traditions come together for an evening of poetry, song, and celebration.
